Diamonds are Not Solely Vanity

They are recognized by the bank as collateral. A diamond is money invested on a rising market; for prices of fine diamonds are increasing yearly. Since 1900 their increase is 30%, and we have been informed of a 5% increase to take place next month. It is also that much invested money in case of emergency. Nor will it go out of fashion, or climb over a stone wall, or have its cylinder burst, like an automobile. See the assortment in our window this week.

Local Schools of Agriculture.

Winning Free Press: A conviction as deep-seated as any in the social and educational creed of our time and country is that the elementary school should not be exploited in the interest of any trade, profession or calling. This means that the children shall be furnished with a social education for citizenship, not a commercial or industrial preparation for a gainful calling; that, for example, whatever knowledge of industrial processes and materials is imparted in our elementary schools either by way of handwork in applied design, or by the older method of book-study, it shall be general and cultural, not special and vocational. It means that elementary studies should be so chosen and so presented as to awaken social consciousness, not mere commercial intelligence, and that elementary schools should secure a many-sided interest, a general resilience of mind, and a broad human efficiency, rather than strive after mechanical precision and the narrow marketable skill of the wage-earning operative.

From the beginning of the high school course, however, such vocational study and practical training as the needs of the community demand should be introduced. At the present time three courses run parallel to each other in our provincial system of high schools. There is the university course, distinctly technical, leading as it does to the so-called "learned" professions. There is the commercial course, furnishing technical preparation for the work of commerce. And there is a technical course for teachers, which leads to an important branch of the public service. Two courses, urgently required in our present system of development, await organization, one in industries and one in agriculture.

Public announcement has been made of the intention of the government to look into the problem of industrial education. When industrial schools for the cities and agricultural schools for the rural centres are established, the province will possess in outline at least a fairly comprehensive system; foundations having already been made in agriculture and in engineering in the university.

If agricultural education is to reach any considerable proportion of the population, it is obvious that the work of the Agricultural College must be supplemented by preparatory schools in local centres. In a recent bulletin of the Carnegie Foundation, President Pritchett states that "the Agricultural Colleges, working as they are today, will not in a hundred years, reach the men who must be taught practical farming."

He speaks in high terms of praise of the Agricultural College at Guelph as an institution which "actually does not take boys off the farm, gives them a good agricultural training and sends them back to the farm." The establishment at Guelph, he says, is really an agricultural trade school, and stands out in strong contrast to the American Agricultural Colleges, not one of which is devoted purely to agriculture, or to agriculture and the mechanic arts which would naturally go with it. "No other colleges are so successful as the agricultural colleges in taking a boy from the farm and sending him somewhere else."

During the period of their struggle for existence the American agricultural colleges, forced into a position of competition with the state universities, resorted to all sorts of devices to secure students, and so retain their life grants. They entered the field of secondary education, they added arts courses, they developed courses in scientific engineering; their fundamental question being how to get students, not what the college was designed to do. "The Iowa State Agricultural College has turned out many more engineers, lawyers, doctors, preachers, typewriters, editors, and politicians than it has farmers." The separation of the college from the state university and the consequent rivalry between the two has in every case proved a misfortune, this rivalry invariably resulting in injury to agricultural teaching.

We have, fortunately, in this province, avoided the error referred to. Our agricultural college is already an integral part of the provincial university and definitely occupies its own field. But it is only one agency in agricultural education, and cannot possibly serve the needs of the whole province. Even the school at Guelph, which according to Dr. Pritchett, "brings every year from 30,000 to 40,000 farmers to the college and shows them the results of experiments in the growing of plants, in the handling of stock, and in the treatment of soils," secured in 1909 only one hundred entering students from a population of two and a half million people mainly devoted to agriculture.

If farmers' sons will not in any large numbers go to a technical school to study the trade of the farmer, then provision must be made for them at local centres. Various suggestions have been offered, and some experiments have been made. Agricultural courses have been arranged for in existing high schools in certain cases. Separate agricultural high schools have been established in a number of states. Dr. Pritchett favors the idea of local trade schools and demonstration farms, the latter for "the purpose, not of original research, but of spreading the knowledge of that research."

These are important details, but not of prime importance. The chief feature of the situation is that additional agencies are required in this province to supplement the work of the college. These agencies will serve as helpful and necessary connecting links between the elementary school and the college, and will stand in a distinctly organic relation to the other portions of the educational systems.

Insurance Policies.

A case was decided in court the other day in which a fire insurance company escaped liability on grounds which caused the judge to remark that the company's defence was highly technical. There does not appear to have been any allegation that the plaintiffs had been willfully violating any conditions of their insurance contract. Their policy was invalid because they did not know of the existence or bearing of some clause in the document.

The insuring public have a certain amount of protection in the fact that most companies will pay, except in cases of flagrant imposition, rather than submit to the dubious advertisement of having repudiated their contract on purely technical grounds. This, however, is not enough. Insurance contracts, whether for fire, life, accident, or sickness, are long, rambling documents, in which the verbal circumnavigation of the legal profession has reached the point of unintelligibility.

In its essence insurance is a comparatively simple form of contract, the conditions and limitations of which can be expressed in plain English, and not in the fearful jargon which the legal profession affects. All contracts of insurance should also be according to a stereotyped form, which no company should be permitted to use until it has received the imprimatur of the law department of the government, whose business it would be to see that whatever drawbacks and limitations the policy possessed were openly displayed and not ingeniously concealed.

TO PROTECT TRADEMARK

Vigorous Campaign to be Instituted by the Slater Shoe Co., Ltd.

Toronto World: Some weeks ago a report was published of an action instituted by the Slater Shoe Company, Limited, against the Eagle Shoe Company, in which an injunction was applied for, by the Slater Shoe Company, Limited, to restrain the defendants from using the name "Slater" on shoes made by that company.

"The case has been before the courts now for some time," said Mr. Charles E. Slater, president of the Slater Shoe Company, Limited. "We intend to prosecute the action vigorously to the end, for we have for years been subject to this and many other forms of unfair and unjust competition."

"Every Slater shoe has the 'Slater' trademark on it and we have even had to protect ourselves against flagrant use of this trademark."

"Year in and year out we have been hampered and harassed by the sale of common shoes, which the buyers were led to believe by some sort of subterfuge were Slater Shoes, when they were not. We were instituting a vigorous campaign to protect our customers against these infringements. We are even securing the names of retailers who make a practice of co-operating with the unscrupulous makers of these counterfeit shoes."

COMMISSION WILL RESUME TODAY.

Pres. Clarke of the A. & G. W. Ry. Will Be Present—Cushing in the East.

Edmonton, April 9.—After waiting through two or three suit cases full of documents, and looking through the records of the four telegraph offices, comprising almost one hundred thousand telegrams, Messrs. Walsh and Johnson, counsel for the royal commission, which is investigating the Alberta and Great Waterways transaction, announced that when the commission meets again on Wednesday next, they will be in a position to go ahead with the case. There is still a lot of work to be done and many of the telegrams will have to be translated from the code they are in before it can be determined whether they are relevant to the case or not, but by working night and day, the two lawyers are confident that they will be ready when the investigation opens again.

As might be supposed, beyond the mere fact that they will be ready to go ahead with the matter they refuse to divulge whether they have found out anything damaging or what will next be brought up.

"We expect to have Mr. Clarke, president of the Waterways company, here and also the ex-minister of public works, and they will be examined for the production of documents, but this will take only a short time, possibly part of the first day," said Mr. Walsh, today. "When that is done we are ready to go ahead and take the evidence of the witnesses we have here. This should not take long and then there is the possibility that we may have to go east to see some witnesses, who will be unable to come here, but this is problematical."

In the meantime, there is little talk of politics in the capital. For one thing, the citizens generally are too much interested in the general briskness of business, and they have civic troubles of their own in connection with the powerhouse, which is rapidly falling down, and the report of the expert, who was called in to say whether it was being run as it should be. There is also the vexing question of the location of the market site.

John R. Boyle is one member whose stock has depreciated. This is not hearsay, but is the plain truth, told to Boyle by one of his lieutenants, who has always occupied a prominent place in the battle, whenever Boyle was running in the Sturgeon district. "Your stock has depreciated 100 per cent," is the way Boyle's friends say he was told, and his only answer was, "Well, I can't see how they can get away from proving a poor business deal."

Of graft, he will not say a word, although his insinuations in the House were not very veiled. He appears to be looking for a soft place on which to fall, but with poor results.

Along the Waterways line the work is going on as usual, and by the time the House meets again, considerable work will have been accomplished. In the Waterways offices, the officials give out definitely that W. R. Clarke, the president, will be here within the next five days, ready for the commission when it sits again.

The action of W. H. Cushing in going east at a time he knew he was wanted to appear as a witness, is also being criticized here. Messrs. Hobson, Minty and Mackenzie will again be here and it is possible that Minty will arrive with Clarke about a day before the commission opens again.

Messrs. Ledingham's Edmonton champion Clydesdale horse, "Glenale" will travel in the Lacombe district this season. Fuller particulars later on in bills.

Hot, Andrew, Hot!

Andrew Carnegie is sweeping the length of the United States, stopping here and there to disconcertively comment on the failure of millions to bring happiness and to bewail the fact that, despite his efforts to the contrary, he seems destined to die possessed of more money than any man, to quote the laird himself, has any legal or moral right to control.

At banquet and public meeting this steel master preaches on the obligations of wealth, and gives lavishly of books, all "free to the people." Beneficence and advice are scattered with almost equal prodigality. It is harder to get a million dollars now than it was when Carnegie merged the steel interests and retired a multi-millionaire. The laird says so, and he ought to know, seeing that he may speak with some sort of knowledge of corrective legislative remedies.

A supremely vain man, this telegrapher who became the premier steel master. Landon is as much to his ears, and he is never happier than when contemplating his own greatness and the sum-total of his library gifts, in dollars and cents. Professing intimacy with the sage, he is of the class which buys its books by the yard, to fit a costly, if grotesque, niche in a gorgeous mansion along New-Rich street.

Andrew Carnegie is a mighty interesting man. He would be even more interesting if he would keep his superciliousity more in the background. He is a product of the very business mischievousness which he now berates. And his self-satisfied measurement of his own achievements spells vanity and nothing else.

Pittsburg has much to answer for and not the least of it is that she developed a Carnegie to preach against his own practice.

New York.—The doors of the Union Bank of Brooklyn have been closed. The bank has seven branches. O. H. Chennan, state superintendent of the bank, has taken possession of the institution. The report of the provincial licence department shows that a reduction of 112 taverns and shop licenses was made in Ontario during 1908-09. For the current license year of 1909-10 there has been issued only 1885 tavern and 244 shop licenses, which represents a further reduction of 148. This is accounted for by the increasing number of municipalities in which local option is in force and reduction of licenses authorized by municipal laws.

A Reader wishes to know if it is true that Hon. W. H. Cushing was opposed to the A. and G. W. Ry. Bill. Mr. Cushing was not opposed to the bill. The bill was introduced to the legislature on the 10th of Feb. 1909, by the Hon. A. C. Rutherford, seconded by the Hon. W. H. Cushing and passed through the various stages before the house was dissolved and a new election called for. In that bill there is no mention of maximum or minimum, but it is distinctly stated that on the completion of every ten miles it shall be paid for at the rate of twenty thousand dollars per mile. The man who seconded the resolution which made the bill law was Mr. W. H. Cushing and it is a late hour for him or any apologist to come forward to say that he did not know what he was seconding on that occasion.

The Minister of Finance, Hon. W. S. Fielding made the announcement last week in the Commons that the Canadian mint will turn out five dollar gold pieces of the same intrinsic value as American five dollar pieces.

A lawyer has a month's time in which to frame a question with a catch on it, and the witness has not a minute to consider the answer to give. The witness may not know the full import of the question, but he does know that there is a trap in it somewhere. Accordingly he takes half a minute to frame up a reply to a question that was a month or even six months in the making, and then the adverse newspapers come out and say that the witness "hailed and hesitated." Do you blame him?

Toronto water is so bad that they have to strain it through a ladder to separate it from the debris. One of the exchange papers that comes to our office, advocates a plan whereby young ladies attending church in the evening, can register their names in the church vestibule, so that the young men who are in the habit of lingering around the church door can see whether or not their best girl is present and thus set their troubled brain at rest. The plan would undoubtedly be a great convenience for certain young men in this town

The main draft has been already prepared while the inquiry of the past ten days has been to clear up some odds and ends. On Saturday joint through rates were discussed. Up to this time such have never existed, and goods have been charged the full local rates of each. Some figures were submitted on Saturday, and suggestions made as to the basis of the rate, but the consideration of the question was not finished.

The New York Sun says that in 1920 Canada will have a population of 15,000,000 and have a commerce far exceeding in value $1,000,000,000. Time was when the New York Sun was never tired of proclaiming that the manifest destiny of this country was absorption in the United States. The Sun realizes now that it was mistaken, and that the destiny which Canada is working out does not include any such national merger.

Base Ball Time.

Now that the hockey season is over, the young men of the town are wondering what form of sport should engage their attention during the summer. What is the matter with getting up a baseball team? There are in Lacombe enough old devotees of this game to make two first class amateur teams, and all it requires is someone to get the players together and entice them a little. Baseball seems to be the favorite game in the surrounding towns. Bentley, Blackfalds, Red Deer and other points having good teams every season. Get the ball boys together and get down to work right off. Frank McLeary will be glad to have the players hold a meeting at his place of business any night, and as he is an old player, will be able to point to give some valuable pointers.

Halley's Comet.

Lick Observatory, Mount Hamilton, Cal., April 11.—Professor W. W. Campbell and other officials of the observatory today would not venture any specific opinion as to when Halley's comet would be visible to the naked eye.

The comet is now seen through the telescopes shortly before sunrise. It emerged from eclipse with the sun yesterday, when it was sighted by astronomers for about fifteen minutes.

The celestial wanderer is approximately one hundred and fifty million miles away. Between now and May 18th when the earth passes through its tail, it will approach until only 14,000,000 miles from the earth.

Speaking of the comet, Professor Campbell said: "Until May 18th Halley's comet will be a morning object, becoming visible before the first rays of dawn, and after that time it will be an evening object and will be fairly conspicuous during the last half of May."

"It is unsafe to predict the brightness of a comet and for that reason I do not care to say just when it will become visible to the naked eye, but I believe it will be two weeks before it will be possible for us at the observatory to see it without the aid of telescopes and a week or two later before it will be apparent to those in the valley. The people will have a greater difficulty in seeing it on account of the glare of the electric lights of the city and there is a possibility for that reason that it will not be visible from San Francisco at all. It depends upon its brightness and that, as I said, is unsafe to predict."

"We will pass through the tail of the comet on the night of May 18th and will take several hours in so doing. I may say that no danger need be feared. There may be a glow in the sky and perhaps a meteoric display, but apart from this harmless and beautiful phenomenon nothing will occur to affect human lives on earth."

HEREFORDS HEAD

AVERAGE SALES.

Fairly Good Prices Received at Calgary—Lacombe at the Top.

The tenth annual auction sale of purebred bulls and fat cattle at Victoria park, Calgary, last week, clearly demonstrated the fact that although Mr. Horse, who was very much in the limelight, and was feted, petted and patronized by high and low, rich and poor, and almost everybody else, he has not got it over Mr. Bull very much. He may have better quarters, receive better care, but he is evidently not any better bred or worth more to the province than the Shorthorns, Herefords, Angus and Galloways, which were shown and sold in the ring. And the prices realized for them were not one dollar more than any of them were worth.

As usual, S. W. Paisley, the veteran auctioneer, of Lacombe, was on the stand, and in only a few instances was he compelled to order an animal out of the ring without receiving a fair price for it. Some splendid animals were sold and the average price realized was $96 for Shorthorns, $111 for Herefords, $90 for Aberdeen Angus, and $75 for Galloways. Last year the average was—Shorthorns, $108; Herefords $101; Aberdeen Angus $121; and Galloways $60.

The ranchers and stockmen who attended the show were very much impressed with the quality of the animals, and in every instance were satisfied with the price paid for the animals. The largest purchaser was J. A. Markie, inspector of Indian agencies, who purchased 30 bulls for his service on the various reserves. Two hundred and five dollars was the highest price received for any one animal, and $60 the lowest.

Death of James Burke.

Early Friday morning, April 1, 1910, James Newton Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Burke, passed from our midst to the Home beyond.

The deceased was a bright little follow of eight months. Though every remedy was tried to hinder the progress of pneumonia, he died after a brief illness of two weeks.

He will be greatly missed, especially in the home. The funeral service was conducted at the First Church Sunday afternoon, by the Rev. T. Smith. The Pall Bearers were Leslie, Edward, Edna and Ulla Burke.

Over a hundred people attended the funeral, and he was laid at rest in the Lacombe cemetery.

Safely, safely gathered in, Free from sorrow, free from sin, Passed beyond all grief and pain, Death for thee is trust and gain.

For our loss we must not weep, Nor our loved one long to keep From the home of rest and peace, Where all sin and sorrow cease.

How to Dope Wheat.

A subscriber writes:

The easiest way to dope wheat and oats I got from a friend and now pass it along. Get two barrels, put one in wagon at back and the other on the ground. Bore 11 inch hole in barrel on side as near as possible to the bottom; put in plug. Ordinary zinc bucket holds three gallons of water. Put nine buckets of water in the barrel in the wagon that is 27 gallons of water. Then put in half a bottle of formalin and stir. Then dump in the wheat as long as the water covers it. Then draw the plug and empty into the barrel on the ground. Dump wheat into the wagon, put in plug, put the water back into the top barrel and repeat. Mind and put a small gauge wire inside of barrel over plug hole; gauge wire or piece of sack will do, so as to keep wheat from coming out with water. An hour at night dopes as much wheat as you can seed next day.

When I was but a little lad I used to watch the men fill up their trusty briar pipes, and smoke, and smoke again. "Man's highest aim," I thought, "is just to make tobacco burn;" and so I wiped an old clay pipe and started in to learn. Ods fob! the anguish I endured! The gasping, choking breaths! I curled me up behind the barn and died a hundred deaths; and father found me writhing there, and stood me on my head, and lammed me with a barrel stave till I was nearly sped; and mother shamed me sore, and said: "The world for ruin's ripe, since I've become the parent of a fiend who smokes a pipe." Yet dauntless was their noble boy, untamed and undimmed; I quickly got another pipe—when can my glory fade? I cried aloud, sustained and soothed by an answering trust: "I am the captain of my soul, and I will smoke or bust." And so the day of triumph came, and I could smoke, and smoke, without becoming so distressed that I was fit to creak. Ah, many weary years since then have flown with ruthless speed, and I've burned up a million pipes and ninety tons of weed; and I have tried so hard to quit—and I have tried in vain; and so the small boy's courage gives the veteran a pain—Walt Mason.

Manager Richardson Speaks of Last Year's Success.

In the course of his Annual Report, Manager Richardson, of the Alberta Live Stock Association, said:

During the past two or three years a number of the members of the association have been under the impression that it was time that the association branched out and held a sale in some other part of the province. As the province developed there has been more justification for this view. A few years ago a large percentage of the sales made were shipped east, south and west, and a very small percentage shipped north. As the settlement of Alberta increased, the ranches of the southern part of the province became wheat farms, and the part of the province north of Calgary became more thickly settled with stockmen and mixed farmers, the number of animals shipped north after each sale gradually increased. As a result of this development, your directors decided to hold a sale at Lacombe, at which point, if successful, an annual sale could be held. Sixty-two animals were entered, of which 68 were sold for $4,785, an average price of $82.50. The sale was very satisfactory indeed, and the animals averaged within $3 of as high a price as the first sale held in Calgary in 1901. The 68 animals sold were composed of the following breeds:

31 Shorthorns, average price, $91.61.
12 Herefords, average price $70.
11 Aberdeen Angus, average price $79.65.
3 Holsteins, average price $76.65.
The general average quality of the animals offered at the Lacombe sale was not as high as those sent to the Calgary sale, which was responsible for the average price being lower.

Considering the two sales, I think that the average price obtained was considerably better than would have been the case had all the animals been offered at one sale, and no doubt a number of the buyers and sellers were put to less expense by being able to dispose of or purchase animals at Lacombe.

As a result of the success of the sale at Lacombe, it would undoubtedly be a mistake to discontinue it, as the sale at that point should improve as it becomes established. The association will no doubt have the interests of its members as well as the cattle interests of Alberta in holding sales wherever they could be expected to be a success. The care, however, must be taken to make sure that a sale could be successfully held at another point before such a step should be taken, as the additional expense of advertising and printing, and the general expenses in connection with the sale, increase the expenses of the association very considerably, and the transportation expenses are very heavy where the province has to be covered two or three times a year both in collecting and delivering animals. It would scarcely seem reasonable to prohibit a contributor in any part of the province from selecting according to his own wishes, the sale at which to dispose of his animals and yet you can readily see the increased shipping expenses which a duplicity of sales would entail. I attach hereto a statement of the average prices obtained, and the names of the contributors, as well as a list of the prize winners at the purchased cattle show.

In spite of the fear expressed during the past two or three years to the effect that the breaking up of ranges into smaller areas would be the death knell of the cattle trade in this province, actual facts seem to point quite in the opposite direction. Shipments on the C. & E. line for 1909 were 68 per cent greater than the previous years. On the Wetsaskin branch the increase was 189 per cent. On the Lacombe branch the increase was 42 per cent. It is estimated that 128,000 cattle were marketed in 1909 in Alberta, valued at $5,800,000. It is estimated that 75,000 of these were shipped out of the province. The shipments, and while no doubt a considerable number of breeding stock was included in this year's sales as a result of the breaking up of some of the large ranges, on the other hand, the very large increase in the production of cattle on the smaller farms, will, it is hoped, make an increase possible in connection with next year's shipments. This increase will need to be exceedingly large in order to meet the demands on account of the increase in population in western Canada, and the demand will no doubt be further stimulated by the decrease in the cattle stock of Manitoba during the past two years, which is estimated at over 100,000.

Particularly with reference to the services of Live Stock Auctioneers, S. W. Paisley, who has officiated at every association sale since its inauguration. His services have been most acceptable, and he has been far more than reasonable in his charges, on some occasions practically making no charge at all, and at the Lacombe sale held last year, owing to the lack of funds, Mr. Paisley very kindly gave his services free.

Cattle Breeders Elect Officers.

The Alberta Cattle Breeders' association held their annual meeting in Calgary last week. All of last year's officers were re-elected.

J. L. Walters, Lacombe, is president of the association, Wm. Sharp, Lacombe, 1st vice-president, and John Ramsay, 2nd vice-president.

In the breed directors Bryce Wright, of De Winton, is the director of the Shorthorns; J. T. Parker, of Lacombe, of the Herefords; L. Hutchison, of Dubamel, of the Aberdeen Angus; E. D. Adams, of Millerville, of the Gallopiers; W. J. Triggles, of Calgary of the Holsteins; A. H. Trimble, of Red Deer, of the Ayrshires and C. A. J. Sharrman, of Red Deer, of the Jerseys. The other general directors were re-elected.

Canada Wants the Best Men.

A report was submitted to the U. S. Congress a few days ago by Senator Dillingham, chairman of the joint immigration commission in regard to the immigration situation in Canada. Probably the most important statement made in the report is that Canada wants immigrants whose purpose it is to enter agricultural pursuits, such as owners, tenants, or laborers and desires to exclude these immigrants whose presence would tend to the congestion of towns and cities.

Another striking feature of the report is the comparison of immigration into Canada during the past decade with that into the United States. This shows that while 70 per cent of Canada's immigrants during that period came from northern and western Europe and only 30 per cent from southern and eastern Europe, the reverse being true in regard to the immigrants entering the United States. The report says that "no effort is made to secure immigrants from southern and western Europe and unless it is the purpose of such immigrants to enter agricultural pursuits their admission to Canada is doubtful."

On the other hand it is pointed out, effort is made through salaried agents of the Canadian immigration department aided by sub-agents to whom a bonus or commission is paid and by means of advertising, to secure immigrants from the United Kingdom, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Ireland, Finland, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States to Canada.

During the past three years more than seven-eighths were classed as farmers or farm laborers. Probably no other considerable movement of population from one country to another, says the report, at the present time is so largely composed of agricultural people. From 1900 to 1909 in Western Canada 255,690 immigrants were entered for, more than 66 per cent of the entrants being immigrants divided as follows:

English 50.32 per cent.
Scottish 5.20 per cent.
Irish 1.89 per cent.
Continental Europe 27.67 per cent.
Americans 44.91 per cent.

Continuing the report says Canada gives great liberty to her administrative authorities in the matter of deportation.

is deported from Canada, because of previous arrangements made for securing employment. The Dominion maintains a free information bureau in this principal cities both for the benefit of employers of labor and of immigrants seeking employment, and in dealing with Oriental immigration Canada has adopted a policy which practically excludes Asiatic labor.

Earl Grey met with an enthusiastic reception upon his arrival at London, Ont., on last Tuesday to open the "Made in London" exhibition and also the London Tuberculosis sanatorium. Canada has just given a splendid demonstration in justification of her right to control her own affairs, international as well as internal. We refer to the satisfactory settlement of the tariff difference which required tactical handling two weeks ago to prevent commercial warfare. Canadian statesmanship scored a triumph worthy of any nation. The result is quite in contrast with the manner in which the Mother Country used to settle all our differences with the United States. There never was an Anglo-American treaty over a subject with which Canada was connected wherein Canada did not get a look way the worst of the bargain. On the other hand Canada has never negotiated a treaty herself with any foreign power wherein she did not hold her own at least.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets assist nature in driving all impurities out of the system, insuring a free and regular condition and restoring the organs of the body to health and strength. Sold by All Dealers.

Prompt relief in all cases of throat and lung trouble if you use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pleasant to take, soothing and healing in effect. Sold by All Dealers.

Two homes, owned by James Duckworth, of Stettler, were shot last week, the death of one resulting. Warrant has been issued for the arrest of a man named Ed Skales in connection with the shooting.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has given notice of a resolution upon which a bill will be based creating a department of naval service. A number of the grown folk of the district gathered at the school on Friday evening last to hear the children render the programme which they had prepared for Friday before Easter, but which had been postponed on account of the inclement weather. Mr. Goff, one of the trustees was present and very ably acted as chairman. The school building had been repainted and cleaned inside during the Easter holidays and a supply of new school apparatus had just been procured, including excellent maps of North America and Alberta, a globe, bird charts and a group of geometrical figures. The children rendered their songs and recitations in a very creditable manner and everyone was pleased to see school full of bright interested children.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS.

In an article with reference to consolidated schools, an American educationalist says:

"Again, these larger consolidated schools everywhere increase the attendance. When a pupil is doing irregular, fragmentary work in a class by himself it is no easy matter to get him to remain absent for the most trivial excuse. In the larger class, which progresses in orderly sequence from day to day, the pupil can be made to feel a distinct loss on schedule time, tardiness is practically unknown. There is no sneaking, fighting vulgar language nor improper conduct on the road. The absence of all this is conducive to better morals, no wet feet and wet clothes, frozen noses and ears, consequently less cough and cold, but better health."

These isolated schools suffer for lack of supervision. In Freeborn county there are 139 common schools and 290 school officers. The numerous duties of the county superintendent do not permit more than one visit a year, of an hour and a half each. A competent county superintendent is valuable according to the time he can devote to each school, and to the extent of his acquaintance with teachers and school officers. The county superintendent has not time nor opportunity to impress his ideals fully upon a hundred teachers and three or four hundred school officers. Then, again, a principal could be employed to organize and direct the work along definite lines and to keep the teachers abreast of approved pedagogic methods. In most of these small schools are pupils attempting to study in classes by themselves, but the inspiration of numbers is lacking, and seldom does one have the persistence to secure over a good common school education. In very rare cases, with an exceptional teacher and an exceptional pupil, this individual instruction approaches the ideal, but the small school does not and cannot meet the needs of the masses. Such a school almost invariably degenerates into a mere form. In this connection, State Superintendent Jones, of Indiana, very aptly says:

"The great evil of the small rural school lies in its non-social character. It is wholly unable to furnish each of its pupils that educative influence that comes from association with many of the same age and same degree of advancement; it cannot have in many classes, enough of honest and helpful competition to establish a standard to which many a bright pupil would raise himself, and fails therefore to bring from him that supreme effort which develops and ennobles, and which comes only from a vigorous contest with his fellows. The humdrum and monotony of a recitation in a one-pupil class is discouraging to both pupil and teacher. Not only is the mental work of the school much impaired, but the lack of enough pupils to organize a game on the school house yard prevents adequate exercise and tends to make morbid, selfish and pessimistic all who live in its atmosphere—the deadly quiet and inactivity of the small school kills the spirit."

The Lacombe Creamery.

Mr. G. A. Anderson informs us that the creamery will not be in running order for some days. The collecting of cream will necessitate a complete lay out of teams and wagons, cans, etc. The unclean and somewhat dilapidated state of the creamery building will also delay matters in effecting repairs and the converting of machinery, vats, churns, etc., into a working order will occupy some further time. Mr. Anderson is at present busily engaged at this work and will rush it with all possible speed. He is a man with a wide creamery experience and comes to us very highly recommended from the White Swan creamery of Bowden, where he has been working at the business for the past sixteen years in the one creamery; and once things are put in running shape, there can be no doubt whatever of him making a huge success of the business at Lacombe. Mr. Anderson anticipates calling upon his will-be patrons and making a thorough canvass of the locality and outlying districts in a few days, when all will have the opportunity of making his acquaintance.

CLIVE

The residents of Clive are beginning to touch up their buildings and improve their appearance. There is nothing better than a little paint if you want to make a showing but paint acts as a preservation against decay as well.

The Golden Rod Creamery opened for operation on Monday. About as much cream was delivered as was expected but we anticipate a good season's output.

J. T. Morgan has been in the vicinity of Castor for the last week.

Notwithstanding the somewhat backward and cool weather the farmers are preparing the soil and sowing the seed with the expectancy of a bountiful harvest.

The Live Stock Sale was a pronounced success. The class of stock as a whole never was better and each contributor of stock to this sale, of course naturally thought, and could not be expected to think but that his contribution had a little better appearance than that of the other fellows.

Two cars of stock were shipped from Clive and not a quadruped returned to tell the tale. These beautiful animals consisting of Herefords and Shorthorns, and contributed by Jas. L. Walter, A. F. McGill, Sharpe Bros. and Mr. Kupp, all of Pleasant Valley south of Clive, were of such a high standard of excellence that they brought top notch prices and as a result five of the best bulls were shipped to purchasers in British Columbia.

If you want "Quality Goods" go to the Big Store.

Mr. Critchley, auditor for the Crown Lumber Co., paid a recent visit to Clive with a view of arranging for the erection of an office and yard sheds. We expect this will be a decided asset to the town.

The mock trial to be given by the Yeoman lodge on Friday evening last was postponed as not a sufficient number congregated about the arena to enter into the discussion.

Mr. George Lowery comes from Content very highly recommended and will be in the employ of Mr. A. C. Johnstone. Mr. Lowery has had several years in general store work and we feel sure that Mr. Johnston is making a wise move in obtaining his assistance. John Macfarlane shipped five carloads of hay from Clive last week and will ship six more this week.

Mr. Percy Owen was a visitor at the home of Del Pringle on Sunday.

Several land seekers were in town last week and we understand some of them made good purchases. One of the shrewdest and keenest purchasers was our good, much respected friend Mr. Pringle who consummated a deal amounting to in the neighborhood of $25,000. He made a complete purchase of the premises owned by Emory L. Johnson 3 miles from town and consisting of 800 acres. Mr. Frank Wicket, the original owner, was apparently desirous of re-acquiring this beautiful property and was obliged to pay Mr. Pringle a neat premium for his effective purchase. Mr. E. L. Johnson is grateful to Mr. Pringle for the manner in which he carried the deal through.

BEEF FEEDING

EXPERIMENTS

There is Money in Scientific Feeding of Cattle.

An experiment in cattle feeding of great interest to all stock raisers, was carried on this winter at the Experimental Farm by Supt. G. H. Hutton.

With a view to maintaining the fertility of the land and at the same time finding a market for a quantity of frosted spring wheat which was being held over from 1907 and which was not marketable at more than 35 cents per bushel, a carload of steers were put on feed in December 1909. Besides the frosted wheat the screenings from the oats and barley used for feed constituted a small proportion of the grain ration. Upland prairie hay was fed during the first 10 weeks and timothy hay at the finish. The hay was fed in racks which were kept full. The change from upland to timothy was not made out of preference for timothy for it is believed that well cured upland hay will give just as good if not better results than well cured timothy. The cost of this hay is figured at the market value of these hays in Lacombe at the time they were being fed. Three dollars per ton is rather above the cost of upland hay to most feeders, whereas $6.00 for upland and $7.00 per ton for timothy is charged against this bunch of cattle. The cost of chop is fixed at 40 cents per bushel of 60 pounds or 1/3 of a cent per pound. This, while a lower figure than good chop is worth, is sufficient to pay for cost of grinding and handling and pay the market price of 35 cents per bushel. Chop made from fully matured or slightly frosted grains would have produced better gains than were secured from this grain which was badly frosted.

The cattle were two and three, were a mixed bunch as regards breed and also as to adaptability for feeding. Shorthorn, Hereford and Galloway blood was represented. A much better average lot could have been secured earlier in the season as the best feeders had been picked up by the date these were secured. Twelve were put on feed December 8th, 4 on Dec. 15, and three Dec. 23, making a total of 19 head. They averaged 1130 pounds and cost 34 cents per pound and freight charges and travelling expenses brought the cost up to 3.654 cents per pound or $785.35. Grain was fed in the beginning at the rate of 3 pounds per head per day and was gradually increased until by Feb. 28th they were getting 16 1/2 pounds per day. This was practically full feed and during warm weather had to be reduced as the aim was to feed only what they would clean up in an hour.

They were fed outside in the corral and had access to a shed which was seldom used. The only expense was for lumber to build hay racks, grain tables and for water tank and tank heater being used to prevent the formation of ice on the water on cold days. The total cost of time was 223 hours. The time necessary is evidence that outside feeding may be carried on at small expense for equipment.

The following tables give the results:

Profit of 305.38 less 47.14 $258.24
Average profit per head after covering this loss $14.35

Perhaps a few conclusions may be safely drawn from this work.

1. Expensive equipment is unnecessary as outside feeding is profitable.
2. Frozen wheat or other grain otherwise unmarketable or low grade may be marketed on foot at a good price.
3. When mixed farming is practiced and grain produced for feed and the manure returned to the land there is no dangerous deterioration of the fertility of the soil. The distribution of capital and effort involved in feeding a part of the grain produced on the farm constitutes an element of safety. The time to commence to conserve the fertility of the soil is before the need of such conservation becomes evident.

4. It is safer to bring steers three years old to full feed than steers 2 years old. This must not be accepted as a statement that all two year old steers will not stand full feed. It will depend on the constitution of the individual animals. Two year old steers could not stand the amount of feed that three handled without difficulty. One of these gradually failed and finally constituted a loss while the second was brought back to fair gains after some difficulty. The steers were sold to J. Y. Griffin and brought the highest price ever obtained in Alberta for March delivery cattle.

The Dog Nuisance.

Citizens of Lacombe will be doubtless pleased to learn that under the new bylaw respecting dogs running at large, the owners of canines are required to keep the animals under control at night, and if they are allowed to run at large and disturb the slumbers of law abiding citizens by barking and other means, the owners are liable to a fine. There are only some 11,008,456 dogs in Lacombe these nights, and they all appear to have specially trained voices, and apparently are practising for some great vocal competition to take place in canine society circles this summer. They start their warbles just about the time you are dozing off for your beauty sleep, and keep up the racket until it is too late for you to risk a snooze. Then they lie away to bed and remain quiet until the next night. If the owners of some of these dogs had any idea of the brilliant and illuminated line of profanity some of our most highly respected citizens have cultivated this summer, they would keep their dogs under control at night. Any how, from now on, the owners of dogs are responsible for their dogs. The fine is only $50 but the fine can be raised if this is not enough to stop the nuisance.

He Got Two Months.

A young man named Bowden Gould blew into town a few days ago, and at once proceeded to accumulate a jag of the real old red eye. He was successful in his endeavors, but did not have sufficient cash to prolong the gladness to his satisfaction. So he thought out a scheme whereby he could realize the needed. Knowing that the C. P. R. had a gang of carpenters on the station he went into Campbell's hardware and put up a hard luck story to Len. He told of having a job with the company, and could not work as he had lost his tool kit by accident and was right up against it—broken and hundreds of miles from home and mother. Len's heart was touched and he allowed the gent to pick out a nice outfit, running up in the neighborhood of $25.

The purchaser went away happy, after promising to pay when the pay roll arrived. Len happened over to the station and casually took an inventory of the men on the job. His man was not there and he took a deep think to himself. He looked around town and visited the second-hand store on Railway street. Here he discovered the outfit of brand new tools, which had been soaked by the poor carpenter for $5.75. A warrant was at once got out and in a short time the fellow and his jag was behind the bars of the lockup on a charge of procuring goods by fraud. He came up before Magistrate Carruthers and Ross on Wednesday and pleaded guilty and was given two months at the Fort in which to think over his misdeeds.

The Law Regarding Strays.

Many farmers throughout the district do not appear to be conversant with the new regulations with reference to stray animals. According to the new law the owner of a stray animal must at once notify the brand reader nearest to his place, and that official will go out and examine the animal, and take a copy of the brand (if any, on the animal). Then an advertisement must be inserted in the nearest local paper and also in the Alberta Gazette. Until the law is complied with the holder of the stray cannot collect any fee for his trouble or feed.
